Banana Pudding Delight

Parentage: (seedling x seedling)

3 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 22 – 30, Height 32", Bloom 5.75", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

This yellow self is a stand out in any garden with its heavy substance and light sculpting supported by excellent plant habit and great re-bloom. Its form is full circular and overlapped.

We have gotten some beautiful progeny and a variety of colors with sculpting using Banana Pudding Delight. It consistently imparts its heavy substance and plant habit onto its progeny, and is easily fertile both ways.

Blissful Moment

Parentage: (seedling x seedling)

4 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 20 – 32, Height 30", Bloom 5.5" - 6", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

This cultivar has a performance attitude to match its large, pretty face, a profuse re-bloomer with heavy branching here in our Zone 7 garden. It's a yellow with a very light cream-pink overlay giving the appearance of ivory, enhanced further by its heavy substance and sprinkled liberally with diamond dusting on all segments. It is easily fertile both ways.

Champagne Socialite

Parentage: {Be Thine x (seedling x tet Barbara Mitchell)}

3 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 15 – 19, Height 31", Bloom 6.5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Semi-Evergreen

When we first saw this flower bloom in our New Hampshire garden, we knew we had something special. This large, light, icy, shell pink cultivar boasts amazing substance, adorned with a heavily ruffled, gilded edge. To top it off, it is diamond dusted as well. Talk about garden presence; this baby stands forth in all her glory. Consistent re-bloom. Easily fertile both ways.

Cosmic Lover

Parentage: (Gram's Dream x Strawberry Candy)

4 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 15 – 20, Height 26", Bloom 6.5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

This cultivar got lost in the shuffle moving down here to North Carolina from New Hampshire, and needless to say I was an unhappy camper. When we found it in the gardens we were delighted.

Cosmic Lover is a pink with a dark red plum eye and double edge. The outer edge at times has white and silver teeth. A very light lime green pleated throat complements this Northern hardy cultivar.

This is an important cultivar for breeding dormancy, rebloom and teeth on both narrow and full forms. Easily fertile both ways.

Magic Released

Parentage: {(America's Most Wanted x Smuggler's Gold) x Spacecoast Krinkles}}

3 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 15 – 27, Height 30", Bloom 5.75", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

In the North during cool weather, this cultivar blooms with a very visible halo and darker colors overall. As it warms up the halo disappears. Here in North Carolina it hardly ever blooms with a halo and the color is much lighter. You can see the difference in the alternate photo displayed here. This is a heavily diamond dusted cultivar that has extremely tight ruffling on all segments. We use it heavily here in our gardens in an “edge-with-no-eye” program with excellent results. Easily fertile both ways.

Mango Paradise

Parentage: (Edge Of Heaven x Eternity Road)

4 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 20 – 24, Height 32", Bloom 5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

Mango Paradise has very thick substance. To the touch, it feels as though it is wax smooth. A tangerine-rose with a heavily stitched, ruffled, orange edge. On rebloom the edge turns into orange teeth or tendrils -- sometimes a combination of both. Light diamond dusting enhances this lovely blend with its great garden presence. Easily fertile both ways.

Mrs. Krabappel

Parentage: (Strawberry Candy x Gram's Dream)

4 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 25 – 35, Height 36", Bloom 5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

Mrs. Krabappel is a reverse cross of Cosmic Lover. It is a pink bi-tone with a lavender eye and thin double edge. Most of the time this cultivar's sepals do a half twist. It blooms and re-blooms like crazy. We have used this heavily in our Unusual Form program with excellent results. Easily fertile both ways.

You probably recognize Mrs. Krabappel as the name of as Bart Simpson's schoolteacher on The Simpson's.

(Unfortunately due to our busy schedule we were unable to get good pictures of this cultivar; we will update the images on our website come the 2011 bloom season.)

Party Dance

Parentage: (Angel's Smile x Momentum)

4 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 22 – 30, Height 34", Bloom 5.25", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Dormant

Party Dance is a rose-red bi-tone with a darker halo, heavy substance, stitched ruffling, and large green throat. Blooms hold themselves at a 45° angle for nice viewing. It breeds all colors with edges that vary in color and form from ruffled, to tendrils, to teeth. Party Dance also works as a color clarifier. It is a must for adding dormancy and rebloom to a hybridizing program. Easily fertile both ways.

Passionate Peach

Parentage: {(Enchanted April x Angel's Smile) x seedling}

3 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 20 – 32, Height 26", Bloom 4.5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Semi-Evergreen

Passionate Peach packs a lot of punch to its bloom. It is extremely re-curved, exposing a beautiful yellow-green which extends out across the petal surface with a ruffled edge. A red-lavender line creases the midrib. Diamond dusting finishes the job. Easily fertile both ways.

Rippled Custard

Parentage: (seedling x seedling)

4 way branching, Bud Count 19 – 22, Height 24", Bloom 5.5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

A beautiful ivory custard cream in color with extreme ruffling. Embossed corduroy sculpting adorns the petal surface, and diamond dusting is sprinkled across the bloom. We use it extensively as both a pod and pollen parent in all colors. Excellent ruffling with heavy textures are proven qualities in its progeny. Easily fertile both ways.

Starless Night

Parentage: (Midnight Raider x tet Grand Masterpiece)

3 way branching, Bud Count 20 – 22, Height 36", Bloom 5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Semi-Evergreen

A heavily saturated, velvety purple-black with raised corduroy texture on the inside of the petals. At times it can have a black eye and a very slight double edge of black and silver. Starless Night holds up well in full sun.

I have this crossed into Party Dance and have produced cultivars of exquisite heavy substance in many colors ranging from red through nearly black with chartreuse-green-gold edges. Easily fertile both ways.

Stout And Stippled

Parentage: (America's Most Wanted x Kisses Like Wine)

3 - 4 way branching, Bud Count 18 – 20, Height 22" - 24", Bloom 6", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Evergreen

Stout and Stippled is a very unique, red stippled, patterned crispate on a yellow flower with raised ribbed texture on petals. This cultivar makes its garden presence known. Easily fertile both ways.

If you live in USDA Zone 5 or lower, you may want to mulch this evergreen cultivar in case you experience an "open" winter

Wild Planet

Parentage: (Heal Thy Spirit x Forestlake Ragamuffin)

2 - 6 way branching, Bud Count 18 – 45, Height 28", Bloom 6.5", Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Dormant

By far, a favorite of many people who either viewed it in the gardens or as a future on our website, there is a lot going on in this unique cultivar. It is an extremely light lavender that is heavily diamond dusted with a huge green, pleated appliqué throat that extends out on all segments. It's hard to see in these images but there is a very light lavender band outside the appliqué throat. Petals at the heart of the flower do not touch.

The alternate images will give you close-up views of the outstanding raised teeth, tendrils and serration of the edge that at times is cellophane looking. Each segment re-curves, but the petals re-curve to form a point. Just wild! Dare I say "distinctive"? Wild Planet has up to 6 way branching. Pollen is very easy; pods require persistence but will definitely set viable seeds. I'm working at increasing the bloom size while keeping the form and duplicating it on different colors. We already have a purple with white teeth progeny that looks promising.

Tiki God

Parentage: {(Breed Apart x Momentum) x Be Thine}

2-4 way branching, Bud Count 20, Height 37", Bloom 5.5" Mid-Season, Rebloom, Tet., Semi-Evergreen

This first bloomed in 1997 in our New Hampshire gardens, and I wanted to see if it was consistent in its form. It always bloomed fully bibbed in New Hampshire and once in a blue moon semi-bibbing occurred. I thought I would introduce it when we moved down to North Carolina in 2007. Well since we have moved down here, it has bloomed single full form for the first time, so needless to say I was a little skeptical at that point in introducing it, so I held it back for three more years while playing around with it. This is our second year at registering and introducing daylilies, when we published our spring 2011 introductions, there were quite a few prominent hybridizers who were surprised that I hadn't introduced it. So with some prodding, here we are finally introducing it for delivery this spring 2011. To say that this cultivar is unique and distinctive is an understatement.

It is an extremely light pink. It sometimes looks like a near white, with a much darker rose-pink eye, with a yellow throat that leads to a very dark olive green heart. The edge is very ruffled extending into the heart and at the very edge of the ruffling it is serrated. Added to the mix is an inverted midrib. It has 2-4 way branching and reblooms, but can be top branched in the north. It is very pollen fertile, but pods takes a lot of persistence, but it does set viable seeds. This serrated, sculpted bibbed form is certainly a new "look" on the daylily scene, and one that certainly needs more discovery. I have it crossed into most forms. I also have crossed into a complete line of doubles to see what will happen, and all I can say at this time is it is magical. Truly a gem.
